2. Consonants – The letter c before e or i is pronounced th (Spain) or s (Latin America). The letter g before e or i is a soft h sound.
3. Stress – Words ending in a vowel, n, or l are usually stressed on the second-to-last syllable. If a word ends with a consonant other than n or l, stress falls on the last syllable.
4. Double consonants – ll is pronounced y (Spain) or j (Argentina). rr is a rolled r.
5. Silent letters – In many Spanish words, h is silent; z is pronounced s in Latin America.

Practice by repeating the list of gaming terms aloud and recording yourself. Compare your pronunciation to native speakers on YouTube or language learning apps.
